Dave Rogers, Head of IT at Gresham LLP will be retaining strategic control of the IT strategy, whilst Capital Support provides the resource and technical expertise to ensure the end users can remain productive and profitable.

"Capital Support's insight and experience within the private equity sector was fundamental in aligning our IT requirements to our business goals, providing the seamless transition from in-house to outsource support"

Outsourcing traditional IT functions is a decision many organisations deliberate over as they reach key stages of growth. Finding a provider who understands the needs of your business and industry is essential, but a successful partnership can prove to be profitable, enabling the business to focus on its core functionality, instead of draining resources on internal activities.
