The UK IT Industry Awards are to be held at the Battersea Park Events Arena on 12 November 2009. This new venture merges the BCS (British Computer Society) IT Industry Awards and Computing Awards for Excellence and creates a platform for the entire IT profession to showcase and celebrate best practice, innovation and excellence.

David Clarke, BCS chief executive says: "I'm particularly pleased to see so many entries in these difficult economic conditions; it reinforces the importance of IT in delivering business and social benefit. Our Awards are central to our drive to create the IT profession and the finalists can be proud of their achievements. "

The Awards now form the showcase for the entire profession and will become the benchmark for excellence within IT, consequently Capital Support are delighted to be judged as a premier services provider by a panel of recognised industry experts.

Robin Booth, Publishing Director of Computing comments: "The Awards are a showcase for the very best in the UK IT industry and those who have been announced as finalists can be very proud of their outstanding achievement. The next stage of judging is going to be very difficult. The variety of entrants emphasises not only the value of IT today, but also the way which it touches so many areas of life."
